

---

MTD Drivers

OKTET Labs engineers can write drivers of NAND flash chips working on the bottom of the Linux MTD subsystem. Both 512 and 2048 bytes per page chips are supported.

Committing the driver to the official MTD CVS repository is possible as well.

If you are going to use your flash as a storage and considering JFFS2 as a candidate, we may provide a professional consultations.